

Public Bulletin Board Policy

The Haddonfield Public Library provides bulletin board space in public service areas for the posting of information and announcements of interest to the community.

Bulletin board space is very limited and first priority will be given to materials relating directly to the Haddonfield Public Library. Other announcements and notices will be posted subject to availability of space, with next priority given to events in Haddonfield or relating to Haddonfield based organizations.

The Library Director or designated staff member(s) have the final determination as to whether notices or announcements comply with the basic policy and which notices will be posted.

The following will NOT be posted:

anonymous notices, or those which do not clearly indicate the identification of the group or agency announcements or advertisements of a commercial nature, including notices from individuals for yard sales, rentals, etc. notices from a political party or political candidates general advocacy notices, such as calls to support or oppose legislation.

Posted notices do not imply library endorsement of their contents, nor will the library accept responsibility for the accuracy of any statements or representations made in such materials.

The same policies and priorities will apply to handouts and notices made available in quantities for distribution to patrons of the Library.
